

“Life is but a box of chocolates”- Forrest Gump

What if the world was at peace, with no one arguing, no one fighting, and no one angry at anyone? What if all people and animals and insects and plants lived in harmony? Could they all sit by a wondrous waterfall, collected like an assorted box of chocolates, some with fruity fillings, or nuggets, or nuts, or coconuts or caramels; each unique, sitting there together, watching the sun dance about the mist rising from the crashing waters, painting little rainbows for all to enjoy, everyone recognizing that life is good, something to be savored, relished and shared with all, like a box of chocolates.
